

Make an appointment with your former self.

30 NOVEMBER 2011

Hi,

Past life regression can have therapeutic benefits.

Some people believe in past lives. Some people don't. Although there's no scientific proof it exists, in my years of taking people through a past life, it has become clear that they can achieve very positive benefits as a result of going through the process.

For some, there's a release of a physical pain that seems to have no reason to be there. For example, a sore neck that comes from being strangled in a past life. For others, it explains why they feel a certain way or keep on having particular experiences. For example, having an irrational fear of shallow water edged by reeds, which comes from having drowned in a marsh.

I am able to help my clients release the energetic resonance that still lives on in their cellular memory, freeing them to live their life – this life – in a happier, freer way. When you're ready to make an appointment with one of your previous selves, call me on 07 5500 5573 or click here.
